SEATTLE CORRESPONDENCE.

SEATTLE, Oct. 28, 1873.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

The people of Seattle are now enjoying one of the finest weather ever experienced, either in this or any other land. The nights are clear and starlit, and the days are of the warmest, sunniest nature.

The somewhat exciting sport of

is indulged in at present by our citizens to a considerable extent. The bay upon which our city fronts is the most excellent fishing grounds on Puget Sound and fish excellent in flavor and large in size are caught by the hundreds and sold at from 10 to 50 cents apiece. In fact often they cannot be sold at any price. Salmon weighing as high as fifty pounds are caught in this bay. It has always been a source of astonishment to us that large fisheries have not been established at this and at other favorable localities. We understand that a Columbia river firm have recently made propositions to gentlemen on the Sound resident at Mukilteo, offering, upon certain conditions which we did not learn, to put up an extensive and substantial salmon fishery at that point at an early day. The ultimate result of this advance is not within our knowledge, but it is a safe assertion to say that within a very short time Puget Sound will become one of the most extensive and profitable fishing countries on this coast.

THE GAS COMPANY

Which was organized in Seattle some months since have nearly completed their works and have also nearly completed the laying of the pipes, etc., and in a short time the city will be illuminated with gas—the first town in the Territory that can boast of such modern improvements. The coal which will be used will be brought here from Bellingham Bay and Nanaimo, as that from the mine here will not coke—a quality which must exist before coal can be used for the making of gas.

The coal mine lying about twenty miles from this place situated on the Cedar river and known as the

CEDAR RIVER COAL MINE,

Has recently been sold by its owners—Messrs. McAllister and George—to a company in San Francisco, which has been organized there under the name of the "Cedar River Coal Mountain Mining Company." It is the intention of this company to commence vigorous operations in the spring and build a narrow gauge railroad to the mine, when it is claimed the company will be able to lay coal down at our doors for the nominal sum of $3 per ton. The coal from this mine is of a very superior kind, and so solid and hard that it could be wrapped in the most spotless linen without danger of soiling it—beside which the mine is literally inexhaustible.

The prospects of

THE SEATTLE AND WALLA WALLA RAILROAD

Are not discouraging, as stock in the Company is being steadily taken. The Company has secured the co-operation and influence of two very great helps in the persons of the Hon. S. Garfielde and Rev. Daniel Bagley. These two gentlemen can do more for the project—not wishing to undervalue the zeal, energy and ability of the gentlemen already engaged in this work—than the entire Board of Directors and officers, who are good, efficient men.

It is rumored here that the little

STEAMER ZEPHYR,

Which plies between this place and Snohomish river, and also between this city and Olympia, was recently sold by her owner, Mr. J. R. Robbins, to a Mr. White. Whether she will continue on her present route is not known.

On last Saturday the fine steamship Empire was brought to Seattle from Port Madison, where she will load with lumber. This steamship's keel was laid on the 17th of last May in Port Madison by O. Reed & Brothers, who are her builders, and she was launched on the 18th of October successfully. She will cost when ready for the line for which she was built—the Coos Bay coal trade—near $100,000. Her dimensions are: length of keel, 170 feet; breadth of beam, 12 feet; depth of hold 12 feet; height between decks, 7½ feet. She has 16 staterooms, including a large and commodious saloon. She will be schooner rigged and will take, as before stated, a cargo of about 600,000 feet of lumber from here to San Francisco under sail, at which place she will receive her machinery, which is all of the most improved class. Her register will mark near 600 tons, and she is built for a propeller.

AN IRISH EVICTION.

CHARLES BRADLAUGH'S DESCRIPTION OF ONE WHICH HE WITNESSED.

Did you ever see an eviction? I have. In my checkered life I have been a private soldier, and between 1840 and 1850 I was in the County Cork, stationed at Ballincollig. Those of you who are Irishmen will want no description of that beautiful valley of the Lee, which winds between the hills from Cork, and in summer seems like a very paradise, green grass growing to the water's side, and burnished with gold in the morning, and ruddy to very crimson in the evening sunset. I was one of a troop to protect the law officers who had come with the agent from Dublin to make an eviction a few miles from Inniscarra, where the river Bride joins the Lee. It was a miserable day—rain freezing into sleet as it fell, and the men beat down wretched dwelling after wretched dwelling—some thirty or forty perhaps. They did not take much beating down; there was no flooring to take up; the walls were more mud than aught else, and there was but little trouble in the levelling of them to the ground.

We had got our work about three parts done, when out of one of them a woman ran and flung herself on the ground, wet as it was, before the captain of the troop, and she asked that her house might be spared—not for long, but for a little while. She said her husband had been born in it; he was ill of the fever, but could not live long, and she asked that he might be permitted to die in peace. Our captain had no power; the law agent from Dublin wanted to get back to Dublin; his time was of importance and he could not wait, and that man was carried out while we were there—in front of us while the sleet was coming down—carried out on a wretched thing you could not call it a bed, and he died there while we were there. And three nights afterward, while I was sentry on the front gate at Ballincollig barracks, we heard a cry, and when the guard was turned out we found the poor woman there, a raving maniac, with one dead babe in her arms and another in the other clinging to the cold nipple of her lifeless breast. And if you had been there as I [illegible] son of such a woman, father of such a woman, would not rebellion have seemed the holiest gospel you could hear preached?

LETTER FROM ROSEBURG.

ROSEBURG, Oct. [illegible] 18[illegible].

WHAT I KNOW ABOUT FARMING AND RAILROADS.

This has been one of the most prosperous seasons that Douglas county has enjoyed for some years. The fall of 18[illegible] was favorable for plowing, the spring was well adapted for sowing wheat, and the warm days and cool nights of summer were just what was required for maturing the grain to perfection. While the beautiful rolling ground of the hills and mountain slopes of this county are preeminently adapted for sheep and cattle, yet the numerous rich and fertile valleys are just as valuable for wheat, oats and barley. The production this season has been a large increase on any former year.

Last year the farmers of Southern Oregon and of Douglas county in particular, labored under the impression that the Railroad Company had adopted the principle of moderate charges for freight so as to encourage extensive cultivation and raising large quantities of wheat and other cereals. Under this reasonable expectation the farmers broke up a large quantity of new soil, sowed wheat, oats and barley extensively, and had determined to increase the cultivation every year until every available acre of their farms adapted for agriculture was under cultivation.

The wheat crop was remarkably favorable for farmers, and the wheat market opened equally advantageous to them. Those who sold early were rewarded for their labor, but unfortunately for those who did not do so the railroad company came to the conclusion that sixty cents a bushel is quite enough for the farmers of Douglas county to get for their wheat, and that the railroad company is entitled to the difference between that rate and the selling price in Portland. The consequences were that the freight on wheat was raised from twenty one cents to twenty seven cents a bushel from Roseburg to Portland. The merchants lowered the price of wheat at once, and fearing that the freight rate might be further advanced, refused to buy wheat even at the reduced price, except in such quantities as they could sell and ship as soon as bought. The price is now down from sixty five to seventy cents [illegible]. Merchants do not care to buy even at this low price. Farmers that can afford to hold will not sell, but will hold or feed their hogs with it and raise bacon. I have had frequent opportunities of meeting a number of the leading farmers of the county attending the District Court and seeing some of them on their farms. They assured me that the amount of wheat will be reduced this fall and spring thirty per cent. at the very least; their best wheat lands will be turned into pasture for sheep, by which they will increase their profits threefold, and what is of equal importance to them be able to feel and act independently. One of the best farmers of this county, who raised more than 4,000 bushels of wheat this year, says that he will not sow a bushel of wheat the coming year beyond what he will want for home consumption, although until the late rise in and uncertainty about future freight charges he intended sowing double the quantity this fall and coming spring that he did in 1872-73. This is, he says, the conclusion that the best farmers of his district have come to. He, in common with others, freely acknowledge that the railroad has increased the value of the price of their farms if offered for sale, but owing to the high freight charges and other important changes caused by the building of the railroad, the net profit of the farms is very little more in Douglas county than it was before the railroad was built. It is a fair conclusion to come to, that what the Railroad Company will gain at present by high rates for freight on wheat it will lose in the future more than three times the amount by that proportion of diminished quantities of freight. Whereas by running the railroad for the mutual benefit of all parties the quantity of freight would increase more than twenty five per cent every succeeding year.

The production of wheat in the Wallamet Valley will no doubt continue to steadily increase, from the simple fact that the opening of the Wallamet river by means of the canal and locks at Oregon City will secure free navigation, legitimate competition with the railroad, and freights at moderate rates. The times and the age demand and will secure beyond fail that railroads built by Government grants of land or money for the benefit of the country and the development of its resources, will be so controlled by law as that they shall be run for these objects and not to the injury of any of the important and fundamental interests of the country. The great railroad corporations that are managed for the aggrandizement of the directors and for controlling by corrupt means the State Legislatures and the National Congress are aiming at and sapping the very foundations of the moral tone of society, and rendering our national character a by word and a reproach among the nations of the civilized world. But the opposing social, political and moral forces are uniting and concentrating for self protection and emancipation from these evils. The late elections in California and this State are signs of the times that indicate the coming verdict of the nation as represented in the State Legislatures and the National Council.

It may be safely stated that if the principle of moderate freight charges is adopted, and assurances given that it will be adhered to, the quantity of freight from Douglas county from wheat alone would be doubled in one season. The present policy is killing the goose for the golden egg. The Directors of the Oregon and California Railroad have it now in their power, by adopting a liberal policy of freight charges, to turn the numerous beautiful and fruitful valleys of Southern Oregon into a fruitful field unsurpassed on this coast. By adhering to the present policy, in two years these same valleys will be converted into pasture for the raising of immense flocks of sheep and the hills and mountain slopes covered with numerous herds of cattle. Douglas county will then be literally a land of flocks and herds, by which labor will be greatly diminished and profits considerably increased. These statements are the echo of the sentiments of the most intelligent farmers and business men of Douglas county, which sentiments will have their practical effect in the future, and are worth the careful consideration of those who have it in their power to control at the present time the future material interests of this large county.

WHAT I KNOW ABOUT LIME.

The amount of limestone in Douglas county surpasses all calculation. There are two claims within nine miles of Roseburg owned by leading citizens of this town that could supply this State with lime for generations, and export largely besides. The stone is about the best, and the lime is not surpassed on the Pacific coast. The contractors for building the Agricultural University at Eugene and the Capitol buildings at Salem say that Roseburg lime is equal to the best imported. The railroad company have [illegible] by [illegible] the freight to Portland and intermediate towns on this [illegible] that the proprietors of the lime quarries [illegible] successfully with importers and have [illegible]. [illegible] would lower the freight charges on wheat [illegible] the same rate as they [illegible], they would prove themselves benefactors to the merchant and farmers of Douglas [illegible] production of wheat and other cereals [illegible] improve cultivation [illegible] their own freight business [illegible] short time. Live and let live is the principle on which to act so as to promote the best interests of all classes.

WHAT I KNOW ABOUT LAWYERS AND LAW COURTS.

The District Court of the Second Judicial District has been in session here during the past week and will most likely continue for the remainder of this one also. The attendance of the general public is not large; the bar is well represented in numbers and ability.

Judge Prim, of Jacksonville, presided in a number of cases in which Judge Mosher had been formerly engaged as attorney. Both Judges Prim and Mosher have on this and former occasions given great satisfaction to the bar, jurors and client. Among the important cases tried was Abraham Brother, of Oakland, against Flint & Morgan, of Roseburg, for a claim against the defendants of $6,500 damages in a sale of wool. The lawyers who had charge of getting up the case showed great want of business habits. There seemed to be very little preparation and everything had to be arranged in Court. Judge Prim had great difficulty in getting the case commenced, and as much difficulty in getting the lawyers to proceed. Every few minutes the bar would be brought to a stand still for fresh consultation and deliberation about what to do next. Had the preparations and arrangements been such as any good merchant would have secured, the trial that lasted nearly two days would have been finished in one day. The patience of the Judge and the jury was severely tried. Had Judge Prim not been a man of amiable disposition and tolerant of business incompetence he could not have borne as he did. There was a great want of dignity in some of the members of the bar. To have the feet upon the desk was a common position; the floor was extensively covered with tobacco spewings, and whittling was so loud as to be very annoying. There was, however, much to approve and admire. Judge W. R. Willis, when he did get under way, made the opening statement for the plaintiffs with clearness, fairness and candor. Mr. J. F. Watson cross-examined the plaintiff as with a lighted candle. The defendant and his witness gave their evidence in a prompt, straight-forward manner, and sustained the cross examination without a flaw. Mr. J. D. Fay, of Jacksonville, was specially engaged for the defense. When he gave an opinion on a point he was always listened to with marked attention by Judge and jury. His clear and commanding voice and forcible manner of speaking attracted all listeners. What appeared strange to outsiders was that such an experienced lawyer and fine speaker was not engaged to address the jury for the plaintiffs at the close of the evidence. He should by all means have made the closing address for the plaintiffs. This was a grand mistake on the part of the plaintiffs and their principal attorney. Judge Thayer, of East Portland, and Mr. J. F. Gazley, of Canyonville, made very able addresses for the defendants. Judge Prim's charge was short, clear and to the point. The jury were not long in bringing in a verdict for the defendants.

Mrs. I. Dyer sued for a divorce from her husband, S. W. Dyer, but the suit was dismissed. I refer to this case to mention that Judge Mosher and Judge Prim don't seem to give any countenance to the past free and easy mode of securing separation of man and wife that has hitherto prevailed in Oregon. There are to be no more "references"; all such cases must be tried in open court and the strict letter of the law must be complied with. Neither of these Judges seem to sympathize with the doctrine of "Free Lovers" or the brethren and sisters of the same party who advocate the practice of the "affinities."

The Prosecuting Attorney, Mr. Chenoweth, of Corvallis, is an able and forcible speaker, who secures the attention of the Court and jury when addressing them.

Mr. Fay will shortly leave Jacksonville to reside in San Francisco, where he will follow his profession and, no doubt, make his mark.

WHAT I KNOW ABOUT EMIGRATION AND STEAMERS.

The tide of emigration is running fast and favorable towards the valley of the Coquille, in Coos county, and the rich lands on the forks of the Coquille river. More than five hundred settlers have arrived and located on these lands during the last six months. The steamer Eastport that runs between San Francisco and Coos Bay, making the round trip in two weeks, is invaluable for this object and the general trade of the bay. Captain Paton, in charge of the steamer, and Mr. F. Schutter, the agent at Eastport, are just the men to make such a steamer popular and successful. The steamer is taxed to her utmost capacity to accommodate the number of passengers that crowd her every trip from San Francisco. The company will soon have an additional steamer ready to put on the same line.

Mr. Lane will soon have his fast, comfortable river boat ready for the growing trade of Coos Bay. He belongs to that class of men that are bound to run and win.

MEETING OF PIONEERS.

BUTTEVILLE, Oct. 28, 1873.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

At a meeting of pioneers held in Mathieu's Hall, Butteville, October 4, 1873, F. X. Mathieu was called to the Chair, and W. H. Rees chosen Secretary.

The Chairman explained the object of the meeting to be for the adoption of such measures as may be deemed necessary to provide for a general reunion and festive entertainment of the Pioneers of Oregon at this place, at such time as the meeting may advise.

Subsequently meetings convened on the 18th and 25th inst., decided that their reunion festivity should be held on the 11th day of November ensuing, that being the anniversary day of the adoption by the people of our present State Constitution. There is a committee on general management composed of thirty of the oldest inhabitants subdivided into all the appropriate committees necessary to insure success.

General Lovejoy and ex-Governor Curry, of Portland, and General Palmer, of Dayton, being numbered among those time honored inhabitants, have been respectfully requested to be present and address the Association. The Aurora Band has been engaged to discourse sweet music for the old veterans on the occasion, whilst the younger members, their posterity, will be provided with a spacious hall for their accommodation.

The pioneer ladies and their daughters of this place and vicinity constitute a committee of general superintendence on culinary affairs, and a bountiful repast will be in waiting for the multitude, gotten up after the early fashion of a supper on the plains—now more popularly termed a picnic. All pioneers with their families are most cordially invited to attend.

W. H. REES.

THE STANDISH MONUMENT.—The Boston papers say that the octagon base of the Standish Monument at Duxbury, Mass., has been raised within one course of stone of its full height, ready for the commencement of the round tower, for which the stone is already cut and on the hill. The foundation of large stone laid in cement mortar is about nine feet below the surface of the ground, and the base itself is now up its twenty five feet above the ground. The base is [illegible] feet in diameter on the outside by [illegible] feet in height, with an interior [illegible] of [illegible] feet. The brick cone in the centre holding the stairs is supported by eight large round granite pillars, [illegible] which are twelve feet high, and this part is devoted to tablets from [illegible] mercantile and mechanical associations. The circle wall on both sides of the stairs all the way up are reserved for tablets of military companies of Massachusetts and other States. The [illegible] of the front [illegible] contributed by the New England States, while the keystone, presented by President Grant, represents the United States. The county stones for Massachusetts are all set, circling the top tier of the octagon base now up. Four large sunken panels on the outside wall will receive the names of sixteen of the Standish Pilgrim Associates. The part of the work finished, together with the stone on the ground, constitutes more than half the expense of the whole structure.

The Memorial Diplomatique says Count de Chambord has assured foreign powers that his policy will not be aggressive, and that he will not attempt to reinstate the Pope in his temporal possessions.

OREGON.

One hundred tons of wheat were shipped from Marion station the past week.

The Thompson farm on Clatsop Plains sold at auction Saturday at administrator's sale for $500.

C. W. Jones, of McMinnville, took fifty pounds of honey from a bee hive near that place last Monday.

Twenty three immigrants, who intend to settle in Oregon, were registered at a Salem hotel last Wednesday.

The Statesman learns that Col. R. B. Taylor will shortly retire from the editorial tripod in the Salem Mercury office.

A. S. Mercer, of Astoria, will start a forty column paper at Albany about the last of November, to be called the Oregon Granger.

Captain Crane, owner of the schooner Mila Bond, now aground at Tillamook Bay, has moved her about half a mile on dry land to get her out of the way of the breakers.

The Astorian regrets exceedingly to hear about dull times existing in Tillamook county. Potatoes rot there by the acre this season, and the settlers do not appear to have any commodity that they can realize cash from.

Officer Kimball, of Clatsop, arrived at Astoria Wednesday with a Chinaman in charge, who was turned over to the county authorities for trial on a charge of assault upon Mrs. Ellen Cloutrie with intent to commit murder. The incident occurred Tuesday. The assault was made with a knife.

The Reporter, speaking of the McMinnville College, says: "Last Monday was the commencement of the last half of the first quarter of school, and with it came about a dozen new students for the College. The Institution is likely to be crowded to its utmost capacity this winter, judging from the increase in attendance compared with former years at this time in the season. The Faculty is substantial and able, and we have reason to believe that those who entrust their educational welfare to its care, will, if they do their share faithfully, reap a high reward in the field of mental and moral culture."

THE TERRITORIES.

Wood is selling at $1 25 per cord at Tacoma, chopped and delivered. Cheap as dirt.

The St. Paul (Minn.) Press, of Oct. 11th, says that all building operations of the Northern Pacific Railroad west of the Mississippi are suspended.

Beef in Whatcom, when obtained by steamer from Seattle, is four cents per pound. When bought in the local meat market, the price jumps up to twelve cents. So the Mail says.

Large bands of elk still roam through the forest on the highlands in the vicinity of Gray's Harbor, and when a settler on the tide lands wants fresh meat he shoulders his gun and strikes out for the hills, where, generally, after a short tramp, he succeeds in killing a fat elk.

Capt. A. J. Edwards, a heavy capitalist of Helena, Montana, is now in Olympia, intending to locate on the Sound. He will be followed in a few days by Messrs. Joseph and Frank Kuhnworth and others from the same place, who are also men of considerable means.

In a recent number of the New York Tribune it was announced that the Christian Union of Brooklyn had attached the effects of the Puget Sound and Lake Superior Land Company, to secure a debt of $595 for advertising. It has not been announced whether the amount was realized or not.

John Belden, late a seaman on the U. S. brig Fauntleroy, died on board the Anderson last Monday, while on the way from Madison to the Port Townsend hospital. The cause of his death was found to be dilation of the right side of the heart, with severe congestion and effusion of pus in both lungs.

During the first nine months of 1870, the shipping from domestic Pacific ports arriving at San Francisco had an aggregate tonnage of 446,165; same time in 1871, 467,860; in 1872, 471,811, and in 1873, 489,994. The Puget Sound lumber and coal business claims the greater portion of that trade, and it is growing about as indicated by the increase in the figures given.

A man named Marshall, an employe at the Knappton mills, was attacked by a cougar on the trail below the mills, Saturday night, but he had a lantern in his hand and kept the monster at bay with it till he reached a place of safety. The panther assumed an upright position and walked right into John Wood's, where he has remained ever since unmolested. When Marshall found out who the panther was he cooled off considerably.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

The Prince Alfred on her last trip from Victoria to San Francisco carried $70,918 21 in treasure.

Grand Lecturer Leland seems to be creating somewhat of a stir in temperance matters in Victoria.

Robert Wallace, Esq., ex-M. P., has been notified by telegraph of his appointment to the position of Inspector of Postoffices in this Province.

J. F. McMillan, Esq., editor-in-chief of the Standard, has received the appointment of Chief Clerk of the Customs Department, and will shortly assume the duties of the position.

The Colonist says: We are sorry to understand that Mr. Richardson has not become very favorably impressed regarding the anthracite coal formation on Queen Charlotte Island.

The Cape Beale lighthouse is finished and only awaits the lantern and the appointment of lightkeepers to warn mariners of their danger. There is now a sentry on either side of the entrance to the Straits.

The C. P. R. survey party under Mr. Jarvis have completed the survey from Lillooet to a point 170 miles distant, on the Thompson river. Mr. Jarvis himself has just gone on a flying expedition from Bridge creek to Clearwater, the party having been paid off.

The C. P. R. survey party under Mr. Gans, ... reached Lillooet on the 18th, having completed the survey from Howe Sound to that point. The members of the party were all in good health, and we understand Mr. Ganshy has attained highly satisfactory results.

Captain Sholl, of the mail steamship Prince Alfred, was summoned by Pilot Pamphlet for refusing to pay $18 85 claimed under the statute as half pilotage. The claim was resisted on the ground that the pilot, when he hailed the steamship, was not within a mile of her, as required by law. Witnesses were called on both sides, and the case stands over till the arrival of the Prince Alfred again in port.

FRIDAY MORNING OCTOBER 31 1873

THE CALIFORNIA CONTEST

With its accustomed servility to the railway power the Bulletin of yesterday [illegible] ails Governor Booth and his supporters in California as traitors to party and bolters. On several occasions we have directed the attention of that paper to the fact that in the recent struggle in California the issue unmistakably was between the people and the corrupt ring of politicians who have for years been managing both political parties of California in the interest of the Central Pacific Railway Company. We have repeatedly stated and the files of the Bulletin newspaper will bear us out in the statement—that it was apparent from the first that the same unscrupulous and evil minded men were attempting to control the primaries of both parties. Just as soon as this design was manifest, a counter movement was started. Fortunately for the cause of reform the seeds of independent thought had been sown with no [illegible] hand over all the land. They fell on no barren soil in California, but under the most auspicious circumstances [illegible] and men they germinated and [illegible] root in the popular mind. It [illegible] the [illegible] of such men as [illegible], the notorious "party manager" of San Francisco, to suppress [illegible] growing disbelief in the infallibility [illegible] and Convention. The [illegible] of party name and the autocracy of Leland Stanford were to be upheld at any cost. Party is a very valuable [illegible] public and [illegible] good or [illegible]. But when that machine [illegible] from its legitimate and [illegible] use, it is well that it should be [illegible] it cannot be re[illegible] by the rightful owners, [illegible] forever working [illegible] of upright and honest [illegible] the [illegible] from which [illegible] are sometimes [illegible] skillful counterfeiter poisons [illegible] when they have out[illegible]. The Republican [illegible] in California by trick[illegible] got into the hands of a set [illegible] who com[illegible]anced [illegible] of [illegible] turing and [illegible] Republican-[illegible] at such a time and in such [illegible] that the so-called [illegible] of Governor Booth and [illegible] of both political parties of California had felt [illegible] power. [illegible] had [illegible]; it had fet[illegible] public energy; its [illegible], and from it there [illegible] are to-day the [illegible]. They [illegible] another name, but [illegible] which [illegible] of [illegible] the [illegible] public, fidelity [illegible] the freedom of the [illegible] of the law, justice, right of the people [illegible] and that [illegible] Republican victory [illegible] right and proper [illegible] and the [illegible] in the world to [illegible] noble man will [illegible] the [illegible] tions of [illegible] the Central Pacific [illegible] if bad men [illegible] the Re[illegible] sub[illegible] schemes for [illegible] aggrandisement [illegible] the Republican party [illegible] still. It has just [illegible] trial of its [illegible] forth apparently pu[illegible] and sordid elements [illegible] its utter destruction [illegible] for greater conflicts [illegible]. We hope [illegible] will find it advisable, [illegible] day, to bolt the party. [illegible] the tool of the railway [illegible] it is fulfilling its [illegible]. Let it howl.

THE STOKES TRIAL

[illegible] thought of the verdict [illegible] New York will not [illegible] has been [illegible]. For three years his [illegible] through New York [illegible] wield the cumbersome machinery [illegible] that State, a fortune [illegible]. Eminent counsel [illegible] untiring in their efforts to save [illegible] from an ignominious death, [illegible] have been successful. It cannot [illegible] that the proceedings through[illegible] have been tainted [illegible]. Parties interested in the [illegible] of Stokes have aided the officers of the law with all the needful appliances for bringing Fisk's murderer to the [illegible]. It will be noticed that the defense [illegible] strove successfully in the recent [illegible] to prove that witnesses for the prosecution had been influenced by bribery in [illegible] money. Patrick Hogan, for [illegible], who was in the Grand Central Hotel at the time of the murder, swore [illegible] he had received one thousand dollars for his services as a witness. We think we are fully justified by the evidence in our opinion that the Stokes case was jockeyed through the New York courts.

The evidence on this, the third trial, differed in no material point from the testimony on the two preceding trials, except that it was stronger on the side of the defense. In all probability the evidence of the medical experts who were summoned to prove that Fisk's death resulted from his treatment, and not from the wound inflicted by Stokes, had much to do with this verdict. On this point, Dr [illegible] testified "that it was his belief [illegible] died of the narcotic drugs administered [illegible] and not of the wound." Dr [illegible], Health Officer of the [illegible], after being wounded [illegible] but a [illegible] administered. Whether the wound was fatal or not, the immediate cause of death was coma." On the other hand, Fisk's physician testified that death was caused by peritonitis; that there were no symptoms of poisoning, and that the wounded man never recovered from the shock. There were present in the room at the time the examination of Fisk's wound was had, some twenty physicians. It seems that the jury were influenced greatly by the doubt raised in their minds as to the immediate cause of death.

Stokes has escaped the gallows just as a score of aristocratic murderers have escaped in the same courts. And while the name of Fisk will always be associated with some of the most infamous transactions which go to make up the indictment against the American railroad system now pending in the court of public opinion, while he possessed none of those virtues which distinguish the public benefactor, and while he was known—justly or unjustly—as an oppressor and a dangerous man, yet it will be long before his cowardly murderer will free himself from the stigma of a deed which suggests the bravo and the assassin in its every phase.

REUNION OF PIONEERS

By reference to a communication elsewhere it will be seen that the pioneers of Marion county have taken the initiatory steps for a grand reunion, to take place on the 11th of November. From the preparations made there is no doubt that a very interesting and profitable occasion will be enjoyed. These gatherings to perpetuate the memory of the infancy of civilization and the toils of the early settlers who paved the way for the armies of progress in our State, cannot but be instrumental in giving all who come within their influence a higher appreciation of the blessings and privileges we enjoy in this highly favored land. The organization of the early settlers in our country into societies is one of the most effectual means of preserving truthful records of the primitive history of the same. In these societies are handed down from sire to son the stories of the hardships, the toils and the triumphs of those who first felled the forests and upturned the virgin soil, surrounded by the wild beasts and wilder savages, where now the church and school house and the cottage of the nobler race adorn the cultivated landscape, and the scream of the steamboat and locomotive scares the denizens of the woods back to their lairs in the everlasting mountains.

An old-fashioned juror got into a Trenton (N J) court the [illegible] day, and his antique idea of justice afforded a sensation. A man by the name of [illegible] Bertolini was on trial in the United States District Court on a charge of sending obscene publications through the mails. After seven hours of deliberation, the jury came into court and it was found that they stood eleven for conviction and one for acquittal. The stubborn juror, Joseph Packer, boldly and fearlessly told Judge Nixon that he could not concur in the verdict of his colleagues [illegible], in the first place, other men had committed similar offences with impunity, and, in the second place, the Judge would not allow the defendant to testify in his own behalf. He thought the jury should hear the defendant's statement, and as this privilege was [illegible] he [illegible] emphatically protest[illegible] a verdict of guilty. Thereupon Judge Nixon waxed wroth, and ordered that Packer's name be stricken from the jury panel. The court further ordered that a new trial take place without delay.

We were not wrong in our guess as to the true [illegible] of young Leggett's death. Eastern exchanges severely criticise the verdict of the Coroner's jury. Says the New York Herald, editorially: "'Accidental death' is the verdict of the jury in regard to the cause of the sudden cutting off from the living of young Leggett at the Cornell University the other day. It appears that in a process [illegible] a hazing process preliminary to initiation into the Kappa Alpha Society, Leggett was blindfolded, when he and Lee and Mason, who were leading him, all fell from the cliff. So much for those brutal pastimes, inherited and retained in our colleges from the days of the semi barbarous Anglo-Saxons. It is to be hoped that the violent death of young Leggett will lead to the initiation in our colleges of a new order of things in the place of such senseless brutalities as those which cost him his life."

Fiery M. Ranc, Radical Deputy and once Mayor of Lyons, caused the French ministry a vast deal of trouble. He has just been sentenced to death in contumaciam, by a Paris court. By the way, it looks as if the larger number of the sentences of the French courts nowadays were pronounced in [illegible].

THE [illegible] LEGISLATURE

Around the corner on Dryades street, when the Legislature is in session, you may see the law-making body which is upheld by the Executive Department of the United States. Around the doorway of the Mechanics' Institute one or two negro policemen, armed with clubs and revolvers are standing; mounting a staircase covered with old and tobacco-stained matting you may enter a long hall carpeted with dirtier matting, and there, at clumsy desks sit the law makers—a heterogeneous mass of negroes standing outside the railings and listening with open mouths to the eloquence of their fellows who have been dignified with office. Nearly all the honorable representatives are black, and their opposition is instant and determined to anything which is likely to better the present horrible condition of white society in Louisiana.

In the Senate chamber the same scene is repeated, if a colored man is in the chair he is constantly falling into the profoundest errors with regard to his 'rulings' and decisions and finds it extremely difficult to follow any bill the moment it becomes the subject of dispute, and there is always the black man who is perpetually hopping up to say 'No sir no sir I object to that sir' and the lean white man, dressed in the extraordinarily new clothes and with a general mushroom aspect about him who smiles withering smiles of contempt on the striving negroes as he endeavors, from a carpet bag point of view to show them where they are in error. The scene would be ludicrous were it not so saddening had it not already been enacted for five weary years while the State has meantime gone nearer and nearer the verge of ruin deeper and deeper into the abyss of crushing taxation. Even the Governor who has to do with this Legislature must now and then wish that he had better material to work with.—Edward King "Old and New Louisiana" Scribner's for November.

EXTRAVAGANCE AND ITS CONSEQUENCES.—In passing a house recently whose large bay window filled with blooming flowers always attracted the eye of every person who passed I observed instead of roses and choice plants there was an ugly plebeian card in the window 'For sale or to rent to a good tenant price moderate.' This house was a miracle of beauty and elegance within. Sumptuous dinners and evening receptions were given there all the years since the war. Madame was very elegant and those in her company and toilettes. Her husband was a superb looking man. Can it be possible that it was only last winter that they were enjoying such [illegible] I w[illegible] that people were not even astonished when a florist said that his bill for flowers for those rare entertainments was $700 a month? Mr —— sickened and died in April. His widow and society were shocked when told that every piece of property he owned was mortgaged beyond its value.

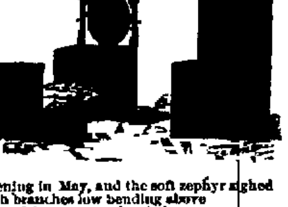
MARY AND I.



'Twas evening in May, and the soft zephyr sighed
Through branches low bending above
My Mary and I as we wandered along
And whisper'd of beauty and love
'We'll make us a nest like the birdlings,' I said
'And never shall part any more'
'Oh yes,' she replied, 'and can furnish it nice
At HURGREN & SHINDLER'S STORE.'

"Fair creature, there's many a wealthier man
Would gladly have you for a bride,
But no one can love you more fondly than I—
My treasure, my beauty and pride!
Oh had I a mansion with carpets of gold
And silver, I'd cover the floor!
But, smiling, she said 'You can purchase the best
At HURGREN & SHINDLER'S STORE.

'I'll spread you a couch upon which to recline
When evening shall call us to rest,
Of the fleeciest down — but,' she said with a sigh
'I like a hair mattress the best.'
'Then so it shall be, love, and tables inlaid
And seats from some far distant shore.'
'Oh no,' she exclaimed. 'They have elegant sets
At HURGREN & SHINDLER'S STORE.

But, Mary alas, I must sadly confess
My means are but slender as yet,
To furnish a house in the style you demand
Would hopelessly plunge me in debt—
To ask you to share my poor lodgings and board
Is something that I should deplore.'
She said with a smile, 'You can buy very cheap
At HURGREN & SHINDLER'S STORE.

'To-morrow then love let us journey along
To the corner of Alder and Front street—
'Tis numbers 98 and 100 (river side,)
Where lovers so happily meet.
How many fond souls might be severed for years
From those they so fondly adore
Were it not for the beautiful furniture they have,
At HURGREN & SHINDLER'S STORE.

They have marble top bureaus and elegant sets
Of Bedroom furniture new,
With center tables and what-nots and mirrors great,
And an endless variety of chairs not a few.
They do a cash business, and with money in hand
To purchase every style of furniture lower
Are able to supply all the public demand
At HURGREN & SHINDLER'S STORE.

We went, Mary and I, and can I ever forget
The pleasure that beamed in her face
As she gazed at the marvels of beauty displayed
In HURGREN & SHINDLER'S place?
We furnished our home in an elegant style
Been married a twelve month or more
And Mary is singing this song to her babe,

CITY.

SEWER OBSTRUCTION.—A few days ago while Mr Habershan was engaged in flushing out a portion of the Stark street sewer for the purpose of washing away any quantities of earth which might have dropped in by accident his astonishment was complete on observing a large piece of timber emerge from the lower end of the pipe and float on the surface of the river. The timber was about six feet long and five inches in diameter. A number of nails were driven in the wood along at intervals on all sides. When the obstruction was placed in the sewer and by whom are mysteries which cannot easily be solved. But one motive could have actuated the person who deposited the stick in the sewer and that was mischief and an evident intention to commit damage. No obstruction could have been placed in the conduit that would be more likely to lodge, collect all the garbage which would pass through and thus effectually impede the transit of the sewage than just such a stick of wood. The catching of one of the projecting spikes at the places where the ends of the terra cotta are united would have been sufficient to gorge the sewer in a short time after it began to convey the water to the river. In such an event the damages resulting would have been great necessitating the tearing up of a portion of the [illegible]. Fortunately the wish of the malicious person who placed the obstruction in the channel was thwarted. It was safely borne through on the water and discharged at the mouth. Too severe condemnation cannot be administered to the individual who was guilty of such very mean and contemptible conduct. Should he yet be discovered he will be dealt with as the action deserves.

ALL SAINTS DAY.—To-morrow will be all Saints Day and will be observed by most of the religious denominations throughout enlightened Christendom. This is a religious festival in honor of all the angels and saints of heaven, observed in the Catholic Church, and also in the Protestant Episcopal and Lutheran churches. In the Eastern churches the same festival has been observed since the fourth century. In the West it was instituted by Pope Boniface Fourth, in the early part of the seventh century, on the occasion of dedicating the Pantheon, a temple built by Marcus Agrippa, B. C. 25, in honor of Jupiter the Avenger and all the gods, to the worship of the true God, under the invocation of the Virgin Mary and all the Saints. This church is still standing, and is called the Rotunda. This feast became general in the ninth century, and is of the first class with an octave. The office was composed by Pope Pius V., on the basis of an older one. Speaking of this day and its imposed obligations, the Sentinel says "This day being one of strict obligation, all true and faithful Catholics will, if in their power, observe it in the spirit in which the Church celebrates it. Masses will be celebrated in the Cathedral church at 6:30, 8 and 10 o'clock, the last being Grand High Mass. Vespers will be had at 7:30 o'clock in the evening."

WRECKED.—Start not gentle reader in anticipation of the recital of some marine disaster. What we would indite is not concerning the wreck of a noble ship, but it is of the fate of a far less pretentious craft. On Wednesday evening an enterprising wood dealer moored his gallant scow near the foot of Stark street. While he slumbered the sleep of innocence the tide arose, overcoming his barge like a "summer cloud." When he arose from dewy couch yesterday morning he found his craft lying several feet under water. The old scow, which has proudly borne so many hundred cords of wood over the raging Wallamet, now lies a hopeless wreck, and will probably be abandoned. Alas that an old water-logged scow should "peg out" and nip so many buds of hope.

REGULAR MONTHLY CONCERT.—The regular monthly missionary concert will be held on Sunday at the Taylor street M E Church. The programme will be as follows: Singing by the school, prayer by the pastor; singing by the school; recitation—Master Royal; duet—Misses Fox and Robb; review of the lesson—by the pastor; singing—by a class—Mrs Sears; recitation—Miss Combs; solo and chorus—Mrs Sears, assisted by the choir; recitation—M[illegible] Frankie; singing by the school and audience; recitation—Emma Sutherland; singing by the little folks—Mrs Sears; presentation of the banner; missionary chorus—choir and friends; closing address—Mr Eaton; singing by the school, collection; singing by the school, benediction.

OFFICERS ELECTED.—At the regular election of officers held on Wednesday evening by Nonpareil Lodge No 86 I O G T the following persons were chosen to serve for the ensuing term: John Bird, W C T; Anna Stearns V T; E W Ryan, Secretary; E A Stearns, Financial Secretary; Emma Hayden Treasurer; S T W Stearns, Chaplain; Jacob Ormsby Marshal; T Daniels, Guard; David Stearns Sentinel; Trustees W S James, S Bird and W S James. The installation of the above officers will take place on next Wednesday evening.

HOME AGAIN.—Capt W V Spencer a former resident of this city, returned from the East on the last steamer, after an absence of many years. Capt. Spencer was well known here as deputy postmaster under A R Shipley then in Ladd & Tilton's bank. Early in the war he was commissioned captain in the Washington Territory regiment, and afterwards was appointed captain in the regulars and was ordered to Montana, where he remained till last year, when he resigned. He now comes back to remain in his old home.

ANNUAL COLLECTION.—The Sentinel says "To-morrow being the Feast of All Saints, the annual collection for the orphans will be made in all the churches of this Archdiocese. The object should be, and no doubt is, sufficient to arouse in the heart of every one, feelings of pure and genuine charity towards the poor little ones who have been, unfortunately, bereft of the loving care of father, mother and even relatives, and thus become our children."

WELL PLEASED.—Capt Windemier of the British bark Santa Rosa came up yesterday from Astoria to Portland. He expressed himself as being delighted with the country. In fact, he was so well pleased that he declared repeatedly he would quit following the sea as soon as he could dispose of his interest in the Santa Rosa and come to Oregon. He would then purchase a farm and spend the balance of his days on terra firma.

LYING AT ANCHOR.—As the Astoria boat came up the river yesterday the vessels Santa Rosa, Duca and Fiefshire were all lying at anchor opposite Oak Point, having sailed up that far. The Dune Thompson was expected alongside soon after the Annie Stewart passed. The former steamer will probably hitch on to two of the sailing vessels. If such is the case these barks will arrive here some time this forenoon.

SALEM DIRECTORY.—Materials are being collected and compiled for this annual publication. The Salem Directory for 1874 will be compiled and published by Messrs Waite & Keady. Considerable material has already been gathered and most of the manuscript will be ready to go to the printers by the 15th of next month. By the first week in January the work will be ready for distribution.

HELD A MEETING.—A meeting was held last evening by the members of the Olympic Gymnasium Club and a more permanent organization effected. Among other things it was determined to modify the Constitution so as to admit of a larger membership than thirty, the number stipulated. [illegible] other business was transacted when the Club adjourned.

SENT BACK.—The notorious vagrant J Weiser alias [illegible] J[illegible] who has just finished a six months sentence at the county jail for larceny was arraigned yesterday morning in the Police Court. He was charged with having defrauded a [illegible] of his dues. The defendant was fined $50 and in default will languish in jail for fifteen days.

SOCIAL ENTERTAINMENT.—The consolidated posts of Baker and Canby held a social entertainment last evening at the Good Templars Hall corner of Third and Alder streets. We learn that a very pleasant evening was experienced by those who attended. Music dancing and agreeable social intercourse were the order of the evening.

FULL ATTENDANCE REQUESTED.—A meeting of the Olympic Gymnasium Club will be held next Monday evening on which occasion a full attendance is desired. On adjourning the Club will proceed in a body to the Turn Verein Hall when they will spend some time in going through with a series of gymnastic exercises.

THE FAIR AT VANCOUVER.—The Ladies Fair in Vancouver in aid of the Sisters of Charity held this week, has, we learn, been a success in every particular. A large amount has been realized.

PATENT LAMP.—Mr M Seller received a few days since, a large assortment of the Patent Standard Tubular Argand Lamp. These lamps combine all the desirable advantages of safety, economy, durability, beauty and convenience. The principle of the Perfected Boston Argand Burner has been improved in the Patent Standard Tubular Argand Lamp by means of a chamber and throat in the inside tube of the burner and a chamber formed by the connection of this within the glass tube, which produces the same result in the lamp as the throat to the fire place or the register to a stove in increasing the draft.

A glass tube pressed with the body of the lamp extends from the bottom of the same to the top forming a connection between the open air through the perforated socket at the bottom and the inside of the flame through the tube around which the wick is placed. By this means a constant current of fresh air passes through the center of the oil keeping it at the same temperature as the outside air and rendering explosions impossible since no explosive gas can be generated. The constant current of cool air passing, by means of a glass tube through the center of the body of oil keeps it cool and renders explosions impossible as no gases are evolved at this low temperature.

Emil, Lowenstein & Co., recently burned out by the great fire, have removed their stock of Carpets Curtains Coverings etc to No. 8 FRONT STREET between Washington and Alder where they can be found selling off the entire stock AT COST in order to start soon in new quarters with an Entire New Stock. All persons indebted to them are requested to call at their temporary place of business and settle up.

Don't go home to-night without having previously made arrangements with John O'Neil & Co to do up a [illegible] in their own peculiar style which is quite popular as the elegant suits daily seen on the street from this house will attest. Mr Schart of the firm has been to San Francisco. That is sufficient. Be sure to call and select from the latest arrivals. [illegible] are new and novel. The place is [illegible].

SUSPICION OF FOUL PLAY.

A YOUNG LADY DIES IN THE OFFICE OF A WELL KNOWN PHYSICIAN OF PORTLAND UNDER SINGULAR CIRCUMSTANCES—TWO MEN ARRESTED ON SUSPICION.

Within the last few days a case of supposed malpractice and death has been partially developed by Chief Lappeus which, if suspicion proves true will reveal some of the most revolting features. For the sake of all parties concerned in this as yet mysterious affair we sincerely hope that the case in its more shocking aspects may be untrue. A case of this character which appeals in the strongest manner to the purest and highest sympathies of human nature in behalf of the hapless victim on the one hand and calls forth on the other hand the deepest condemnation and odium against the wretch who perpetrates an offense equally violative of the laws of God and man. It will be dealt with cautiously and with as large a measure of charity as the circumstances will allow. Actuated by such motives and influenced by this spirit we propose to deal with the truly sad case in hand. We simply state the facts as we learn them without asserting our implicit belief in their correctness without coloring and without comment and wait the further development of the case to confirm or disprove them.

Sometime during the latter part of September a young lady named Miss Mary Hardman whose parents reside about nine miles southeast of Albany left her home and started for Eugene City. At the latter place Miss Hardman had an elder and married sister residing. The story runs—and the more recent developments of the sad affair would tend to prove its truth—Miss Hardman long prior to her leaving home had listened to the false and flattering tongue of her seducer, had believed in his base and hypocritical protestations of love and yielding to the promptings of a pure confiding affection fell. Months after she had fallen from the path of virtue and innocence and the traces of her shame could no longer be concealed the young lady determined to visit her sister. This we are informed she did. Miss Hardman remained for a short time at her sister's house and then came to Portland. She was accompanied to this city by a Mr Mealy of Albany, to whom suspicion now points strongly as being criminally implicated in the case. An examination of the hotel register at the Occidental reveals the fact that Mr Mealy and Miss Hardman arrived here on the 5th of October. What steps were next taken by these parties must remain a matter of vague conjecture until all the phases of the affair shall have been disclosed on the subsequent investigations which are to take place soon.

Last Monday morning Chief Lappeus received an anonymous letter from some person in this city. The letter was written in a miserable scrawling hand the spelling and grammar being execrable. Its contents threw out several dark mysterious hints about a certain young lady who had died under suspicious circumstances in the office of a well known physician in Portland. That physician was Dr C G Glass. Immediately on the receipt of this strange letter Chief Lappeus started forth to trace out the mysterious affair. First he called upon Mr John Lewry the undertaker. On making inquiries as to whether he had lately sold any coffin Mr Lewry informed the Chief that since Saturday he had disposed of two—one for a young lady and the other for a Chinaman. Making careful inquiries the officer elicited some rather surprising facts. Mr Lewry stated that a young lady, of whose name age and place of residence, he was ignorant had died in the office of Dr Glass late on Saturday evening and that still later, the Doctor had caused the body to be conveyed to the undertaker's—situated directly across the street from the office. The body of the girl was laid out in the shop by Dr Glass, who subsequently placed it in a coffin and early on Monday morning sent it away to Albany.

Armed with this information Chief Lappeus next called in person on Dr Glass. From that gentleman he learned where the young lady's parents reside. He stated in addition that the girl had died in his office from bilious fever; that he had called in another physician prior to her death, for consultation, had telegraphed the parents at once of the death of the patient. On receipt of the sad intelligence a brother of the deceased came down and accompanied the remains home.

When the body reached Albany considerable feeling was manifested by the relatives and friends of the deceased and at their earnest and urgent request a post mortem examination was made of the remains. Dr. Rice, who conducted the autopsy, stated that death was the result of malpractice and that the uterus had been tampered with. On Wednesday the remains of this most ill-guided and unfortunate young woman were conveyed to the home of her disconsolate and heart-broken parents and from thence removed to their final resting place in the cemetery near Lebanon. The saddest feature connected with this whole affair is the fact that none of the young lady's family knew of her whereabouts until the news of her sudden death fell like a shock. They supposed that she was with her sister all the time.

From all the circumstances of the case Chief Lappeus determined to thoroughly sift the matter and ascertain what are the real facts, and if crime has been committed to bring the perpetrators to justice. A warrant of arrest was accordingly placed in the hands of officer McCoy yesterday morning who started on the train for Albany. He arrived there yesterday and immediately took Mr Mealy in custody. Both officer and prisoner will arrive to-day.

Learning that McCoy had arrested Mealy Lappeus immediately placed Dr Glass under arrest last evening. He was taken before Judge Denny who admitted him to bail in the sum of $5,000. The requisite bonds were furnished and he released. When Mealy arrives a thorough searching investigation of this mysterious affair will be instituted and the truth or falsity of the suspicions will be known very soon.

The persons directly concerned in the death of Miss Hardman stand in no very enviable attitude not only in the eyes of the law but before the community. If found responsible for her death the severest penalties of the law should be invoked. But if innocent of these foul suspicions we hope for their own respectable standing before the public, for the sake of humanity and a decent regard of divine and human law they may be honorably acquitted. On these points the public maintain an intense and profound interest.

THE WEBBER HEIRS.—About 100 claimants to the Webber estate in Holland met at Republican Hall No. 966 Broadway yesterday. John Brady presided, and a committee was appointed to consult as to the best means of obtaining possession of the property. The following are said to be the facts upon which the heirs rest their claims. In 1660 Sarah Webber a sister of Ancke Jans died leaving a will providing that her property valued at over £30,000 should accumulate at compound interest at 8 per cent to the third generation. Wolfart Webber, sr was the lucky third but knew nothing of the will. Wolfart left two children Wolfart and Sarah who came to this country. Young Wolfart married in 1697 Sarah in 1706; the date of their deaths had not been ascertained. The existence of the will was not discovered until a few months ago when in searching some papers relative to the Jans estate it was found.

He immediately started for the house but a short distance and by the time he reached it the pain from the bite was so severe that he was unable to sit up and threw himself across the bed. [illegible] had crawled up his clothing, and [illegible] gave [illegible] the small of the back. [illegible] the large [illegible] system [illegible] quickly as [illegible]. Medical aid was immediately summoned but [illegible] further [illegible]. And in [illegible] until about [illegible] o'clock that night when death relieved his sufferings.

Have you inflammatory sore throat, stiff joints or lameness from any cause whatever? Have you rheumatism or other pains in any part of the body? If so use Johnson's Anodyne Liniment internally and externally.

Many persons suffer with sick headache and nervousness, which is usually induced by costiveness, indigestion &c. Such persons will find relief if not cured, by keeping the bowels open with small doses of Parsons' Purgative Pills.

"A Dose in Time," &c.

If a stitch in time saves nine, it is equally certain that a dose of a healthy tonic like Hostetter's Stomach Bitters taken at this inclement season of the year may save many an unpleasant twinge. A dose, however is not sufficient. The system should be thoroughly charged with this genial vegetable stimulant and invigorant. Commence taking it with the commencement of the atmospheric changes which distinguish the winter from the autumn. Thereby you will avoid those disturbances of the digestive and secretive organs and those painful diseases of the muscles and the nerves of sensation which often render the period of the year which should be the merriest, a season of penance and disquietude. The extraordinary vigor and regularity which this exhilarating restorative imparts to the most important functions of the body render it an invaluable remedy for nervous debility, constipation, indigestion, torpidity of the liver and intermittent fevers.

THE RIGHT TO BOLT.

JAMES FREEMAN CLARKE GIVES A REASON FOR THE FAITH THAT IS IN HIM—A SPICY LETTER AND SOME SOUND ARGUMENT.

[From the Boston Daily Globe.]

SIR: The remarks made by me at the recent [illegible] convention at Worcester, though well received by many journals throughout the country, have, as I perceive, been misunderstood by [illegible]. This was, perhaps, because my speech was [illegible] very brief, most of the time of the [illegible] being needed by Gen. Butler, who kindly assumed its management. Those who [illegible] from his views had, therefore, [illegible] opportunity of explaining themselves. I [illegible] that some journals, which should know [illegible] of refusing to abide by the [illegible] of the convention, unless I got my [illegible] candidate. This charge is so absurd [illegible] I think these good men must have been [illegible] when they made it. Allow me, then, [illegible] as briefly as I may, consistently [illegible], what I do believe on this subject.

[illegible] is the authority of a convention [illegible] like that recently made at Worcester? First, it decides with authority, who is to be [illegible] as the regular candidate of the party. Fraud, indeed, vitiates all contracts, and, if it should appear that many delegates were chosen by caucuses packed with [illegible], or stuffed with spurious ballots, it [illegible] the result. But, assuming that [illegible] fairly represents those republicans [illegible] at the primary meetings of the [illegible] its nominee is to be regarded as [illegible] of the republicans of the [illegible]. It is, in itself, in equivalent to an election, when the [illegible] the State. Therefore, if Gen. [illegible] a majority of the votes at [illegible], and it had appeared that there [illegible] in the matter, I ought to admit [illegible] to be the regular candidate of the party [illegible] to party authority and discipline.

[illegible] we inquire, [illegible], what deference [illegible] the individual [illegible] of the party? How far are we [illegible]? When [illegible] of [illegible], when [illegible] is involved, certainly [illegible] be always paid to [illegible] persons are [illegible] party; the danger [illegible]. When the only [illegible] we all do, and [illegible] than our own. Now, these two [illegible] quite [illegible] and useful [illegible] gives us our [illegible] claims our [illegible]; and, as [illegible] and too lazy to think [illegible] that party organization [illegible] as strong as it [illegible].

[illegible] the next question. Is this [illegible] to be [illegible] absolute? [illegible] to vote [illegible] of a party majority? [illegible] for this rule, for this would [illegible] bound hands [illegible] any bad men who [illegible] and bribery in getting [illegible]. Boiling, [illegible] or if every man has a [illegible] that case has [illegible] will never [illegible] the doctrine [illegible] to politics, as [illegible] and [illegible] would be [illegible] we are, I [illegible] to [illegible] a paramount [illegible] right of [illegible] that of scratching [illegible] one's [illegible], to that [illegible] the ruins of the [illegible]. If we think the [illegible] and [illegible]. Every [illegible] in [illegible] will [illegible] our duty by [illegible] as to the [illegible] a subordinate [illegible] from [illegible] that we [illegible] of the [illegible] we must [illegible] by its principles. [illegible] voter has [illegible], whether [illegible] or not, it is [illegible] convention have [illegible] it is [illegible], enter a [illegible] to go for [illegible] to secure the [illegible] candidate succeeds, [illegible] in case you fail. [illegible] overwhelming argument [illegible] be so if we bind others [illegible] bound ourselves to [illegible] that we not [illegible] in this way. On the contrary [illegible] is impartial, and [illegible] neither side has [illegible] question of [illegible]. Either [illegible] it is a question of [illegible] the convention claiming [illegible] great. If Gen. Butler [illegible] has said of the [illegible] it was not [illegible] his duty, to bolt the nomination [illegible] support it and his [illegible] shows that he did not [illegible].

[illegible] that other voters [illegible] to bolt the [illegible]? How [illegible] all others have, [illegible]? I contend [illegible] there simply as delegates [illegible] of our own, [illegible] in the convention we [illegible]. We are no more [illegible] than they are. They, [illegible] the nominee [illegible] the party, and to [illegible] is some [illegible] sure, some [illegible] neither we nor they are [illegible].

[illegible] to a convention go to it, not in [illegible], but in [illegible] representative [illegible] for their constituents. When [illegible] they act for themselves again. [illegible] of Congress. A member [illegible] is no [illegible] bound by the acts [illegible] his constituents are. They [illegible] bound to obey these laws, ex[illegible] the higher law of duty; [illegible] obey them. Because [illegible] or John G. Palfrey were members [illegible] which [illegible] the fugitive [illegible] they bound to obey it? Did [illegible] when they went to Congress [illegible] right any law which had a majority [illegible] to be [illegible] by it? Not at all! They [illegible] bound by an unjust law, which [illegible] and opposed, than their constituents [illegible] by it—that is, they were not [illegible] at all. Neither are delegates to a [illegible] any more bound by its [illegible] constituents are bound.

[illegible], therefore, Mr. Editor, is this [illegible] are so far bound by the decision [illegible] convention fairly constituted and [illegible] as to regard its nominees as the [illegible] of the party, and to vote for [illegible] except when these nominations [illegible] to some important principles or [illegible] the approval of some bad measure. [illegible] this is the case, is for each man to [illegible] for himself; and he does not lose the [illegible] by becoming a delegate to the convention.

Yours with respect,
JAMES FREEMAN CLARKE.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

Portland Legal Tender rates, 90½ buying; 91½ selling.

Gold bars are quotable at 725@750 fine.

Would be financiers are now beginning to make the discovery that our financial system embraces some objectionable features, and that among those most so, is a want of elasticity. The need of a currency that will adapt itself more readily to the wants of commerce are now set forth in glowing terms by the various money doctors of the country but if we examine the several methods proposed for rendering the currency elastic,—that is contracting when money begins to be abundant and expanding as the need of it increases—we shall find them one and all either one sided in their operation or of such a character that they would offer no inducement to banks and capitalists. These schemes are mostly modifications of one idea,—namely the loan of greenbacks to government at a low rate of interest and payable on demand. The modifications are (1) That bonds bearing 3.65 per cent interest should be issued in exchange for six per cents, and that on the low bonds government should at any time lend greenbacks to the amount of ninety per cent. of the face value, (2) that a new issue of 3.65 or four per cent bonds should be issued for greenbacks convertible on demand into greenbacks at their face value, (3) that government should borrow legal tenders at four per cent., either by means of Postoffice savings banks or otherwise, and pay them out again on demand. One effect of all these schemes would be to fix a minimum rate of interest. The Postoffice savings bank would do no more. Money always commands more than four per cent. in the country and in the smaller cities. In three or four monetary centers on the Atlantic coast the value sometimes drops to four per cent, for a few days in the summer: but it would be absurd to expect that any extended use of the plan would be made. The banks lend their reserves to correspondent banks at four per cent. but the reserve is not money in circulation, and its absorption would not contract the currency.

Another objection to all these plans is that they provide for the borrowing by Government of money that the Government does not need, and the payment of interest for currency that is to lie idle. This would especially be the case if there were a new issue of low interest bearing bonds. This would be simply an offer to borrow at a fixed rate all the money anybody had to lend, and pay it back on call. But if the [illegible] issue of currency is to be fixed, say at 356 or 400 millions, this offers a most [illegible] opportunity for a "lock up." A clique of large capital[illegible] could easily create a stringency in the market, and it would, in fact, be put in the power of Wall street to contract the currency at will. The plan of exchanging low interest bonds for six per cents. is open to the objection that it means expense [illegible] pure and simple, and to the further objection, as a practical [illegible], that nobody would take advantage of it. Each [illegible] suffering from a scarcity of money might hope that his neighbors would be content with two-thirds of their usual interest, but in practice nobody could be persuaded to take currency bonds, payable, principal and a low rate of interest, in a constantly expanding and consequently [illegible] depreciating currency, in exchange for six per cent. bonds, payable, principal and interest, in gold. The wonder is that anybody could be found to advance so utterly impracticable a scheme.

Home Produce Market.

WHEAT—The arrival of several [illegible] during the last few days, and the [illegible] that others will [illegible] follow, together with more activity and improved rates in San Francisco, have given our market a marked buoyancy, and exporters are freer in making offers. We quote to-day at $1 85@1 90 ₱ [illegible].

[illegible] but little change in our market during the past week. To-day holders are, [illegible] per barrel as jobbing rates of best brands. Common brands of extra rate at $5 50 as the average. Superfine, $4@4 25.

OATS—So much attention is just now turned to wheat that this [illegible] attracts but little notice. The [illegible] during the past week have [illegible] but little in excess of the demands of the local trade. Quotations by telegraph [illegible] in our outside markets of demand, and our quotations remain at 45c ₱ [illegible].

BARLEY—The receipts are limited to occasional small lots which are [illegible] taken to supply the home trade. We note a sale of 400 centals to be delivered by [illegible] 1st, at $1 37½. We quote at $1 45 ₱ [illegible].

FEED—There is not a large stock in the hands of [illegible], while the local demand is rather [illegible]. We quote firm at $15@18 ₱ ton for Bran, $22 50 for Shorts, and $27 50 for Middlings and Chop.

HAY—We notice quite large receipts and an increasing activity in the demand. Good baled Timothy quotable at $18 ₱ ton, jobbing rates; loose, from wagons, sells at $12 to $14. Wild Hay commands $8 to $9 [illegible].

POTATOES—The market is thoroughly stocked with all varieties, and sales of large lots are effected with difficulty. The extreme quotations for jobbers are 30 to 42 cents ₱ bushel.

ONIONS—Very plentiful, and owing to the flatness in the San Francisco market, prices are extremely low. We quote at 1½ to 2 cents ₱ lb.

APPLES—The receipts of all [illegible] varieties are heavy, and some sample shipments to San Francisco brought the top of that market. Prices here vary with the wants of purchasers, ranging from 37 to 50 cents.

BACON—The supply of sides is in excess of the [illegible] demand, while Oregon hams and shoulders are very scarce in the market and are considerably inquired after. Our quotations for sides are 10 to 11 cents, hams 16 cents, shoulders 10 to 11 cents, firm.

LARD—There is considerable inquiry for fresh Oregon-made, at the freely offered price of 11@12 cents ₱ lb in kegs, and 12@13 in tins. Supply limited.

BUTTER—The usual difficulty prevails in giving correct quotations, owing in part to the varied qualities offering, and in part to the want of all uniformity in the manner of packing. Thousands of dollars are lost every year on this article because the Butter makers of Oregon will persist in neglecting the ordinary rules of commerce in preparing their Butter for market. There are now so many varieties of quality in the market that prices range at every point from 12½@30c ₱ lb.

CHEESE—The State dairies supply a choice quality for 16@17c ₱ lb, which is in fair demand.

EGGS—Have been quite scarce during almost the entire week, and jobbers have been anxious inquirers. Quotations reached 40c ₱ doz, at which they are now firm.

CHICKENS—Full grown are quotable at $3 ₱ doz, last spring's, $2; Ducks, $4; Geese, $8@10; Turkeys, $15@18.

DRESSED HOGS—The demand is brisker and receipts have also increased. Butchers and packers are offering 6@6c ₱ lb.

BEEF CATTLE—We notice an improvement in the demand for choice young cattle, which are quotable at 5c ₱ lb delivered on foot.

SHEEP—For mutton choice lots are offering at $3 ₱ head.

HIDES—We notice quite an active demand, and the shipments are by no means inconsiderable. Some 3,500 will go out by the steamer to-morrow. We quote the market firm at 7c ₱ lb for green, 8c for salted, and 15c for dry. These quotations are for lots in an undamaged condition.

WOOL—There have been something like 20,000 lbs received the past week, which were purchased prior to arrival. News from Eastern markets has not materially changed quotations here since our last review.
